

Write Python code which accepts name of a product and in turn returns their respective prices.

Make sure to use dictionaries to store products and their respective prices.

The dictionary should include at least 5 elements.